

DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY IN THEOLOGY

PROGRAM GUIDE

The Doctor of Philosophy (PhD) in Theology at IUDI prepares scholars and leaders to make original contributions to the field of Christian theology while addressing the complex challenges facing faith communities today. This program combines academic rigor with a focus on personal and community transformation, offering an in-depth exploration of scripture, Christian history, systematic theology, and ministry practices from an Evangelical perspective. Learners gain advanced research skills and critical thinking abilities to engage deeply with theological traditions and contemporary issues, equipping them to address the spiritual and social needs of their communities.

Through specialized coursework, original research, and the completion of a doctoral dissertation, students immerse themselves in cutting-edge theological scholarship while addressing the global complexities of faith and ministry. Graduates of the program are prepared to become thought leaders in academia, ministry, or Christian organizations, embodying ethical leadership, effective communication, and a commitment to fostering spiritual growth and community transformation.
